A $100,000 FIRE
SINGES SCOTSDALE.*Nearly a Block Was Burned
Out and Damaged This Morning.*CONNELLVILLE. SENT HELP*Origin of the Blaze Said to Have Been Incendiary — Scotsdale Firemen Worked Valiantly as Did Everson and Youngwood Volunteers.*Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Oct. 3.—Scotsdale suffered an incendiary fire that caused a loss of property and stock of about $100,000, and gave the Scotsdale and Everson volunteer firemen a long hard fight, in which they were aided by a car load of fire fighters from Connellville, headed by Chief J. W. Mitchell, and the Youngwood department, who came on a flat car drawn by a special engine. The Connellville men came in a West Penn street car, with Motorman George Shoemaker and Conductor Frank Conway. It was 4:15 when the Connellville department arrived with Youngwood a little later, but by that time the Scotsdale department had the fire under control, so far as could be seen, although there were stubborn spots between buildings and under roofs which looked as if they might break forth again.

From the Central hotel building on Pittsburg street down to Broadway and out Broadway, south to the street, there was fire and smoke and water damage. The fire started in two places, and the same spots where fires have been started in the past, but which were discovered and extinguished.

In the public mind today there is not a doubt but that the fire was started by some fiend, who probably has tried the game before in this town. But this time the blaze had too much headway to be handled like the previous times, once when Samuel O. Steiner found a fire at the rear of his store, and Dennis Deffen later found a fire in the rear of his restaurant. The circumstances make it appear similar to the recent fire that burned out the Brown Millinery Company a couple of weeks ago. The fire this morning was started in the rear of Deffen's and in the rear of the Peerless Amusement Company.

Mr. Deffen's daughters were awakened by the smell of smoke and saw their parents. Mr. Deffen awoke to get his family out. He tried to get back into the place to get a trunk in which there were over $300 in cash, but the flames broke into the room and Deffen had to retreat. The restaurant is ruined, and the upper floor of the building. Mr. Deffen's household stuff was nearly all destroyed, and he has no insurance. Had the Deffen family slept a few minutes longer some of them would have lost their lives.

While Mr. Deffen was trying to save his family and goods the blaze from the Peerless Amusement Company's bowling alley, pool parlor and barber shop was going up 300 feet further up town. Alarms were sent in and all the departments turned out. They attacked both places where the fire raged, and found a stubborn battle.

The Central hotel building was badly burned, catching from the Brennan building in which are located the Adams Express Company and Farberstein & Epstein, clothing. The Peerless Amusement Company's building was burned down. Cash Grim, manager of the Peerless Amusement Company, stated the building contained 11 billiard and pool tables and four bowling alleys. Their loss is about $1,000 and insurance about $2,000.

T. J. Diskin and the Adams Express office occupy the building next to the bowling alley and these were burned out. Mr. Diskin's loss is about $2,500 and the Adams Express Company loss is heavy. Jacob Falk lost about $2,000 in new stock that had come in by express.

The Byrne building rises three stories and this stopped the fire on either side and retarded its progress somewhat. Marks & Goldstein, clothing, occupy the first floor of the Byrne building and part of the Nelly building. They lost $25,000 worth of stock, with about $10,000 insurance. On the second floor of the Byrne building is the real estate office of Folk & Kent, and in the rear the offices of J. R. Byrne. The third floor is occupied by the Columbus club. Folk & Kent lost their entire office, insured for $2,500. The Columbus club had comparatively little damage.

The Greer opera house escaped the fire although it was damaged at the rear and some water damage in the interior. Their loss is $2,000 insured. Homer Milliron was next below lost nothing of his barber shop and building. James H. Hurst, the clothing store, lost almost nothing, some goods in a small space being damaged. He has a stock of $20,000, partly insured. The Steiner Brothers' tobacco store

by Vicious Bull*Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Oct. 3.—Fatally gored by a bull while managing a dairy farm at Petersburg, Va., Ross B. Stickle is dead at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Stickle, at No. 511 North Chestnut street.

Mr. Stickle was attacked on last Thursday afternoon by a bull that had been a prize winning animal at the Virginia State Fair. He was caught unexpectedly by the animal and tossed high into the air. Falling, he was again gored. One horn pierced his right lung while the other entered his groin. Death came on Friday afternoon at Petersburg, and his body was brought to Scotsdale on Sunday.

Mr. Stickle was in his thirty-first year and is survived by his parents, his wife, two sons, one brother, and a sister. His wife was formerly Miss Mary Finney, who had resided with Assemblyman and Mrs. L. L. Love of Youngwood. Mr. Stickle had managed a dairy near Mahan, but had gone south only a few months ago.

Presbyterians to Start on Church

The Presbyterians are getting ready for a busy winter in order that actual work on their new church, to be erected on the South Side, may be started early next spring. The building committee will hold a meeting Thursday night at which time architects will be notified that the time is at hand to consider plans for the edifice.

The committee has its work unimpeded and there will be little leisure time until the contractors begin digging dirt. During the winter financial arrangements must be adjusted, plans discussed and contractors consulted.

The building committee organized last evening. The members elected Col. J. M. Reid chairman and E. K. Dick secretary. Besides the original members, Reid, Dick, Dr. J. C. McClenathan, W. W. Smith and H. M. Kerr, four others were added, T. J. Hooper, Dr. T. H. White, J. R. Davidson and R. C. Beerbower.

Sheriff Shields Increases His Lead

Latest returns from Westminster's battle of ballots make no important changes in the relative positions of the respective candidates. The victory of Sheriff John L. Shields, however, in his contest for the Republican nomination for Commissioner, continues to grow as additional precincts send in their returns. With only 13 districts missing last night, Shields led by 124 votes over W. Dick Renner, while Renner led J. Grant McGeeby by 103 votes. Early returns indicated a close race between Renner and McGeeby, but the former pushed ahead in the precincts reported Monday. Shields has 527 votes over McGeeby and 1,297 over J. D. Miller.

There was no change today in the list of successful candidates announced yesterday.

INCREASED RATESOn Coke Complainied of by the Wisconsin Steel Company.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 3.—An advance of 15 cents a ton in the freight rate on coke from the Connellville region in Pennsylvania to South Chicago was declared excessive by the Wisconsin Steel Company, which in a petition filed yesterday with the Interstate Commerce Commission, the petition asked restoration by the Pittsburg & Lake Erie and other railroads of the $2.35 a ton rate.

Condition Improved.
The condition of Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, who has been seriously ill at her home on West Apple street for the past few weeks, is greatly improved and unless other complications set in she will be able to sit up for a short time by the latter part of the week.

Love Leads Barnhart by 44 Votes
In Total Unofficial Count at Noon.*Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 3.—The official count of the primary in Fayette county will be taken up tomorrow morning and it may take it to finally decide whether James J. Barnhart or Thomas Love of Everson will receive the Republican nomination with William P. Jackson for Poor Director. As the vote stands at noon today with all districts heard from Love was 11 votes ahead. Barnhart still claims that he will be the winner on the official count, but it looks as though the Everson man has pulled through by a narrow margin.

CITY ELECTION
FIGHT RESUMED.*This Time the Democrats
Take a Whirl in the Litigation.*APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT*Is Contemplated as Result of Petition of W. A. Bishop to Have His Name
Placed on Ballot—Court Refuses Mandamus and Papers Sealed.

The fight to hold the city election this fall instead of waiting until 1912, was resumed in the Fayette county courts today. This time the Democrats are taking a whirl at the petition of W. A. Bishop to have his name placed on the ballot on the act of June 21, 1911, which apparently delays the election of about three years after the question was originally voted upon in 1910.

Attorney E. C. Higbee started the proceedings this morning when he presented the petition of W. A. Bishop requesting a mandamus on the County Commissioners requiring them to either print his name on the November ballot as a candidate for Select Council from the Fifth Ward, or show cause why not. The court took on an air of roughness when the petition came to its attention but promptly and firmly rejected it. Upon the refusal to grant the petition—the court explained that the reasons accompanying a former refusal covered the present case—the papers were sealed and the matter can be appealed to the Supreme Court, which sits early this month.

It is understood that the Democrats will seek to have the Supreme Court make the election this fall possible. Now that the county primary election has passed into history the matter can be fought out without being seriously confused with the primary contest. The election boards are rejoiced that such was the case, otherwise they might have still been counting ballots. Captain John L. Gans started legal proceedings to hold the city election this year when he secured a mandamus on the County Commissioners to show cause why his name should not appear on the Republican ballot as a candidate for Council. His attorney, D. M. Horvick, had a "hunch" that his case was good, but Solicitor R. F. Hopwood for the Commissioners failed to take the same view of it and Gans' hopes were dashed when the court agreed with the argument of the Commissioners, in a lengthy and comprehensive opinion.

Attorney Higbee entertained the same view that Horvick formed, after he had read the entire act of June 21, 1911, and believes he has a chance of getting the Supreme Court to reverse the Fayette county judiciary on this much mooted question.

Women's Quarrel in Squire's Office

Mrs. Katherine Moore of Connellville township was given a hearing last evening before Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side on a charge of assault and battery. The information was made by Mrs. Ella Moon, a neighbor of the defendant. The two women had been quarrelling for the past month or so and the prosecutor alleged that last Saturday Mrs. Moon struck her.

The arrest was made by Constable R. A. Smith of the West Side. Mrs. Moore was held bound over for the December term of court.

The monthly meeting of the consistory of the Trinity Reformed church will be held this evening in the church.

Dictionaries
Here at Last

That last consignment of Webster's New Standard Dictionaries arrived this morning several days behind schedule. This is the last consignment. There were but 100 of them and all but a few have already been reserved. This is the last chance to take advantage of the best dictionary offer ever made in this section.

Six consecutive coupons clipped from The Courier and a 98 cent charge to cover expenses of handling the proposition is the only formality required to secure one of the volumes. Quick action is necessary because the demand is heavy and the books are going fast. After this consignment is exhausted the offer will be discontinued. The present shipment was received only to accommodate a few score of disappointed purchasers who procrastinated over the matter.

SAY HANDS OFF.*Neither Turkey Nor Italy Will Tolerate Intervention
as Yet.*TRIPOLI BOMBARDMENT IS ON*Turkish Fleet is Safe and Turks Are Strongly Intrenched 50 Miles From Tripoli—Russia Offers Aid to the Port.*United Press Telegram.

ROME, Oct. 3.—Italy has refused to entertain any idea of intervention by any outside power until it has annexed Tripoli; Turkey refuses intervention until Italy expresses willingness to pay a cash indemnity for the acquisition of Tripoli.

The Turks are strongly fortified 50 miles inland where 60,000 reinforcements have arrived. It is certain that the Turkish fleet is safe in the Dardanelles. It is reported that the czar has offered to support the Sultan in exchange for an unrestricted passage for Russian navy past the Dardanelles.

A shalup in London, Vienna, St. Petersburg and Berlin diplomatic circles is probable as the result of the official negligence which allowed Italy to practically complete the Tripolitan grab before the outside Chancelleries were aware that such a move was contemplated.

An official statement was made today announcing the bombardment of Tripoli by the Italian fleet. The official censor prevents the knowledge from being made public whether the bombardment proceeded the Turkish evacuation of the fortifications. It seems to verify the Italian statement that the bombardment was delayed in the hope that Turkey would come to terms and it is believed the Port failed to do so.

SOFIA, Oct. 3.—It is stated on good authority that Bulgaria today issued a call for 200,000 army reserves. The move suggests the long threatened invasion of the Turkish provinces of Macedonia. Turkey is concentrating troops in Macedonia and Albania.

Full Honors for Admiral Schley*United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, who dropped dead yesterday on Forty-fourth street from heart failure, will be buried with full naval honors in the Arlington National cemetery. The interment will probably be made tomorrow according to an announcement of the Schley family today.

The body was sent to Washington this afternoon. Mrs. Schley, the widow, and her son, Dr. W. S. Schley, have already left the city.

DOG WAS VICIOUS.Sharpened Teeth at Expense of William Porter's Shoulder.

A shepherd dog said to have been owned by Thomas Maxwell of South Connellville, fastened its teeth in the shoulder of William Porter Saturday. Mr. Porter is one of the best known residents of South Connellville, residing on Gibson avenue.

He was returning from the polls where he had cast his ballot at the primaries when the dog attacked him. The injury inflicted was painful.

TO LOCAL PEOPLE.*Wm. Shelley Gets Separation
From His Wife, Nina
G. Shelley.*CRUEL TREATMENT ALLEGED*Jessie Holt Granted Divorce from Her Husband, John M. Holt, Who Deserted Her Some Time Ago—Routine of Morning's Session.

At a session of court at Uniontown this morning Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen granted two divorces to Connellville people. Wm. Shelley, a school teacher, was granted separation from his wife, Nina G. Shelley, on grounds of cruelty. He claimed that Mrs. Shelley wanted him to wash the dishes and make the beds and perform such other little household tasks. When he failed, he claimed, she nagged him and otherwise made life miserable.

Jessie Holt was granted a divorce from John H. Holt. Mrs. Holt lives in Connellville and her husband some time ago left for parts unknown.

George G. Gans was granted permission to close the dining room, kitchen and guest rooms of the Exchange hotel for 30 days, during which time extensive repairs will be made to the building. Gans asked 60 days but the court explained that it is the custom to allow 30 day periods and then extend them if necessary.

Guy R. Cooley aged 10, was adopted by Anna S. Cooley of Georges township with whom he has made his home since the death of his mother, the late Hannah E. Cooley.

Christine Reed of Pittsburg filed an answer as respondent in the divorce suit brought against her by Lewis T. Reed, chauffeur for the Central hotel. What Christine says about her estranged husband is not fit to print. She denies in toto the equally indecent charges preferred in the libel.

Daniel Tolan and George Drennon, convicted for the larceny of brass, made good on parole and were discharged by the court today. They hail from the neighborhood of Fayette City.

W. F. Shelton was called and sentenced to pay one half of the costs as the prosecutor of Andy Matuchek of Wheeler in an assault and battery case. The jury acquitted Matuchek and placed half the costs on Shelton.

Attorney William A. Miller was appointed master in the divorce case of Clyde J. Merryman against Katherine Merryman, his wife.

Basketball Hall Is Sure to Go Up

The new basketball hall is assured. There was much doubt about it from the start but at a meeting last evening it developed that all but $200 of the $2,000 stock issued for site had been subscribed and more orders are coming. It is not beyond the bounds of reason that $2,000 worth may be taken up. If this is done the interest bearing indebtedness may be materially reduced.

The Connellville Construction Company is already working on the new building. It is promised ready for occupancy within 30 days. Rockwell Marotta and A. A. Straub came to the front last night. Mr. Marotta subscribed liberally to stock and through Mr. Straub's personal efforts 100 shares will be taken by several parties.

The league meeting will be held this evening to award the vacant adopted.

Captain Hains Released.
OINING, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(Special.) Capt. Hains was released today from Sing Sing prison. Accompanied by his father he left at once for Brooklyn.

Dispute Over Election the Cause Of Shooting Among Colored Men.

An election dispute in Arch street between Jim Betters and Harry Tolley about 10 o'clock last night ended in the shooting of George, better known as "Jingling" Johnson, a colored boy aged about 18. Johnson is not seriously hurt. A .22 calibre bullet from Tolley's revolver intended for Betters struck him under the left shoulder and lodged in the top muscles of the right shoulder. The bullet was extracted by Dr. H. F. Atkinson. It struck Johnson as he stood with his left side to Tolley and did not penetrate very deeply.

The shooting created great excitement for half an hour or so among the colored folks who gathered on Main

River Stays High
Result of Showers

The Youghiogheny river is maintaining a high stage with the aid of the rains which have saturated the mountain districts east of this place and while the gauge on the bridge shows the stream to be fluctuating, it is holding its own. This morning it was at a stage of 6.90 feet. Last night 7.25 was marked, reaching that point from a start at 6.75 yesterday morning.

The temperature dropped rapidly after dark last night and the policemen on the night beat began to think seriously of securing overcoats. Last evening at 5 o'clock the mercury at the West Penn read 60 degrees. This morning 55 was the 3 o'clock record, four degrees lower than 21 hours previous.

The cold snap has come with the cessation of showers which fell in an almost continuous performance during the past week. J. Plusius staid off the job Saturday in order not to interfere with the primaries, but Sunday and yesterday morning his water cart was at work.

Schools Crowded in Dunbar Twp.

The monthly meeting of the Dunbar township school board was held last evening at the Arlington hotel with all members present with the exception of J. R. Keagan and Thomas Logan. The crowded condition of the Junaluska schools was taken up and the only way the congested condition could be relieved for the present was to erect a partition in room No. 2 and equally divide the number of pupils. In room No. 2 there were 84 pupils enrolled, making it impossible for the teacher to handle the different classes in the way they should.

Miss Freda Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rhodes of the West Side was elected teacher of the new room. Miss Rhodes is a graduate of the local high school and this fall entered the California State Normal. She will take charge of her new position next Monday morning. A number of minor bills were ordered paid and other business of a routine nature was transacted.

Finance Committee
'Goes Over Bills'

The Finance Committee of Town Council met last evening and went over the bills that will be submitted for payment at the regular meeting this evening. No particularly large bills will come before the body tonight and most of the outlay will be for the payroll.

The Council meeting tonight does not promise to develop anything out of the ordinary and it is expected that routine business will occupy the greater part of the session.

Burying of Dead Begins at Austin

United Press Telegram.
AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 2.—Searching parties today went miles down the valley searching for bodies. It will require at least a week to make a thorough search of the ruins of the town, the relief committee say. More workmen are badly needed.
A block and tackle was used today to rescue a cow from the roof of a four-story building of the Emporium Lumber Company, south of here. The cow had been carried down by the flood and then stranded.
The burying of the dead began today. Few of the bodies are mutilated. A woman's head and the body of a child with the back of the head missing, have been found.
A girl's head was found three miles down the valley. It was recovered from the torso as it with a knife yet it bore no scratches or bruises. The hair was intact, even to the puffs, which were held in their proper place by hairpins. The head was identified as that belonging to Nellie Karp, aged 21, a stenographer.

BUFFALO, Oct. 2.—A. W. Good-year, head of the Goodyear Lumber Company, said today:
"We shall send at least 100 men to Austin today from Buffalo. They will go down there in bunk cars and aid in the work of cleaning the debris."
"What Austin needs is financial aid. The need of money is keen among the 100 surviving families who lost practically everything they owned, their belongings and their homes. Any money sent to the Austin Board of Relief of this city will be keenly appreciated by the sufferers."

Three hundred youths left here today to aid in the search for bodies at the wreck town.

"Cinderella Girl" Pleased a Critic

"My Cinderella Girl," the musical comedy which comes to the Houston theatre this evening, captured the critic of a Uniontown morning paper, who contributed a very laudatory review last night after witnessing the performance there. According to Uniontown, Frederick V. Bowers is largely the whole show and really doesn't need the clever support he has been accorded.

The chorus is declared adequate, music tuneful and catchy, and the conducted musical comedy could be. The advance notices supplied by the press agent are said to be lived up to in mild testimony by the way.

"My Cinderella Girl" is the first musical comedy of the present season for the Houston and its reception in Uniontown last night indicates that it will be greatly enjoyed by Conneltsville lovers of catchy music, the frolic of silken costumes, by portraying flourishes of allegory and an abundance of lively, sparkling, humorous dialogue, the melange that makes up the musical comedy of today.

Trusts Willing to Reorganize

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—When Attorney General Wickham returns to Washington next week he will carry with him agreements from the Federal trust, the DuPont Powder Company, the Wholesome Greases Association and the International Harvester Company to reorganize or disintegrate after the method directed by the Supreme Court to the Standard Oil Company.

It is stated on good authority that the Steel Trust is also expected to make the same agreement shortly. Wickham will carry the agreements into the Federal court and the attorneys for the trusts will inform the court of their willingness to perform the contracts. Wickham will then ask the court to issue the agreements in the form of an order of court. The purpose of this is to hold any trust guilty of contempt of court if it fails to make good.

TUITION CHARGE WAS NOT RAISED.

School Board Leaves It at the Old Rate, $3.50 and $2.00.

NIGHT SCHOOL ON WEST SIDE

Thomas H. Brown, Colored, Will Guide the Steps of Italian Class
Along the Rosy Path of Learning,
Other Doings.

The tuition charge to High School students living outside the district was not raised by the School Board last evening. Dr. T. H. White amended the motion and moved that $1.50 be asked instead of $1.00 but when the vote on the amendment was called he was engaged in a discussion of the matter with Director J. R. Davidson and failed to vote. There wasn't a vote in favor of the amendment although both Dr. White and Charles H. Halsey voted against the original motion to charge High School students $1.50 per month and grade pupils $2.

Dr. White said Dunbar township levies only a 6 mill school tax and has 75 per cent. of that paid by the coke companies. He thought $3.50 too low. Others in favor of the present price advanced the argument that the outside pupils cost the district only what supplies they use, the balance being "velvet." There are about 45 of these pupils in High School and Principal Cobbough was of opinion that only about half of that number had their tuition paid by other School Boards. Cobbough stated that the additional pupils required the formation of but one new class in High School and if they were not there the teaching corps could not be reduced.

Like Danqu's ghost, the youth of the dark complexioned night school teacher of the West Side stalked before the members last night and the haunted victim finally ceased its monthly nocturnal perambulation by quieting the question, at least for the present. Thomas H. Brown, the negro teacher, is guiding the faltering journey of some dozen or more Italians whose ambition it is to master the English language and benevolently assimilate other rays from the lamp of knowledge. Brown's class has outgrown the limited quarters of a room in Philip Pope's house and he sought permission to press into service an unused room in the Sixth street building. The permission was reluctantly granted by the board on motion of Director A. W. Hart, seconded by Dr. H. C. Hoffman.

The School Board was given an opportunity to purchase the lot to the north and immediately adjoining the South Side school from Mrs. Jean H. Davidson for $1,100. The proposition was presented by J. A. DeWitt, who stated Mrs. Davidson wanted the Board to have the first opportunity to purchase. The matter was referred to the Property Committee for a report at the next meeting.

The Visiting Committee did not get a good start the first month of school. Of the six members appointed at the last meeting one was absent and failed to report, four present reported they had not made their visits, they being Dr. White, A. W. Bishop, Joseph Metzger and A. W. Hart. Director Herpich was absent from the meeting but sent word that he had found everything in good working order at the Third Ward school. The visiting committee for this month will be made up as follows: High School, B. J. Thomas; Second Ward, B. J. Thomas; Third Ward, Smith; Fourth Ward, Farnworth; Fifth Ward, Duttalmore; Sixth Ward, Hoffman; Seventh Ward and Greenwood, Leng.

The Finance Committee had an extensive report. Chairman Armstrong said he could probably dispose of eight old radiators for $75. Permission was granted to make the deal. Chairman J. H. Davidson of the gas committee reported that work had been started connecting the Third Ward furnaces and the Fifth Ward. He stated that the Fayette County Gas Company had ordered the necessary tenders here to make the connections but said nothing in regard to turn on the gas.

Secretary Thomas reported the payment of $3,500 bonds and $170 interest as authorized at the last meeting. Dr. White of the Library Committee reported that the teachers had just presented a list of about 200 volumes that are needed and there had been no time to take the matter up with the Library trustees as yet. He was directed to hurry matters along. A rebate of $14.21 was allowed C. M. Miller for the taxes of Mrs. Catherine Deutz collected through an error of assessment. The Treasurer reported the following balances on hand: Sinking fund, $2,295.11; Special High School Building fund, over drawn, $391.94; Building fund, $250.02; General fund, $254.16.

The Secretary reported an aggregate of $32,273.13 due on all tax delinquencies. Tax Collector C. M. Miller's bill for notices was paid with the exception of a charge for printing receipts, which was disallowed. The following bills were ordered paid: J. V. Slaughter repairs, $12.77; Cooper's battery repairs, $4.75; Joe. Johnson 11th Street Co., $1.00; F. A. Yanner card holders, $1.00.

lost about $500, insured Sata's Rokos Brothers, the Boston Candy Kitchen proprietors, lost stock on the corner. Next to them south on Broadway M. M. Trout, the butcher, lost $2,500 worth of fixtures, insured for $1,000. McElth & Taylor's grocery, next door and under the rear of which the fire seems to have started, lost $2,000 worth of stock, with $500 in insurance. DeLaven's restaurant is next and is a total loss, in the rear from fire and badly damaged in front from fire and water. Mr. DeLaven and family live in the second floor over the restaurant and the stores named.

The evis of a tin roof were shown this morning. This building owned by Livingston & Miller, was on fire under the roof, which grew white hot a number of times, so that the firemen could not get on it. They could not get the water under the roof and had to be contented with keeping a stream on the top and against the buildings whose walls rose at either end of this frame building. The loss here was about $20,000.

The Broadway Drug store was saved from catching by heroic work. The Evanson fire department were up and rendered aid to the town. The firemen never up against a more extensive and widespread blaze and they handled it in splendid shape.

There was an absence of wind, the most of the time other than the very slightest breeze. Had the wind been blowing like it was at the last fire, the entire town practically would have gone. The area of the fire and the frame buildings which it was encountered made the spread of it easy under wind.

J. P. Brennan is a large loser as the buildings from the Central Hotel down to the Byrne building are his. His loss is probably $25,000, fairly covered by insurance.

Hundreds of people were out, and the fire lines were drawn on all the streets. It was about 3 o'clock this morning that the first call for assistance came to the Connellsville firemen from Scottdale. Fire Chief J. W. Mitchell leaped out of bed, hastily pulled on his outer garments and proceeded to get his men together. He routed out Superintendent M. A. Coffey, who reported him to the car barn to get a special Motorman George Shoomaker called but before he had time to awaken Conductor Frank M. Conroy, Mitchell had received word that the Connellsville firemen were not needed and cancelled the order. Shortly before 3:15 another call for assistance came to the firemen. Fireman "Boozie" Conroy did a Marathon up Pittsburgh street and found Mitchell on Brimstone corner. The process of getting the special was repeated. It was just 1 o'clock that car No. 103 stopped opposite the City Hall and the engine and hose were loaded. Several members of the West Side Volunteer Fire Department were aboard. They were called out by the three deuces which Mitchell had sounded. The "three deuces," signal for a general alarm, and the wildest screeched long enough for every dog in the borough to start baying. The canine population aided the fire whistle in a most admirable manner. Those owning dogs who didn't care to venture forth in the dark dank gloom of early morning were kept awake for considerable time after the whistle had ceased by the baying of the dogs.

Because the only power came from the storage batteries at the Green and barns, the car crept up Main street hill, but made up for lost time going down the other side. It took 20 minutes to reach Scottdale. Once there the boys made themselves useful. They were stationed at the means of part of the blaze and worked ankle deep in the water that turned the brick alleys into a quagmire.

About 20 firemen, regulars and volunteers, did duty from here but when they arrived the blaze was under control. It was stubborn to fight, however. A blanket of tin roofs covered nearly half an acre of wooden debris in the

and in Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey the strength and health giving qualities that are so necessary to them.

Mrs. Julia Corum, one of our patients, tells of her experience. "I have been in a very precarious condition for a year, which affected me mentally and physically. I have been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, with splendid results. We are never without it in our house." Mrs. Julia Corum, Highport, N. C., R. 1, D. No. 2.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is a safe and sure remedy for all ills peculiar to women. It acts directly on the vital organs, stimulating them to healthy action, aids digestion and circulation. Mothers, it will give your daughters strength and rosy cheeks, and fit them for their useful sphere as healthy, happy wives and mothers. It is recommended by physicians and used as a family medicine everywhere.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war. All druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Refuse substitutes and imitations. The Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

rear of Pittsburgh street and Broadway and each cent in the tin brought a burst of flame to the surface. The smoke was so dense the firemen were nearly suffocated. For more than an hour and a half the Connellsville firemen battled against the blaze. They worked quietly and without ostentation. The boys were somewhat eclipsed by the Youngwood volunteers who arrived on a special Pennsylvanian railroad train a few minutes after Connellsville had gone to work. The Youngwood detachment made a run up Pittsburgh street to Broadway and then down to Grant. They did it in fine style, too, without the dinner bell or their reel jangling a child's clatter. The Youngwood boys worked hard, too, even if they did play to the gallery.

The Connellsville firemen waited long enough to get some hot coffee and a few sandwiches and then boarded the special. They reached home about 6:15 o'clock. It was the first time that the Scottdale firemen have had so much outside assistance. Connellsville, Evanson and Youngwood were there to help fight the flames. The couplings caused the Connellsville firemen some trouble, it being necessary to use reducers before a stream could be played on the blaze. The special carried nearly all of the fire engines, three or four of the fire engines who made the trip, and a newspaper man who had previously done a Marathon down the Main street hill and showed lack of training by the straitened exhausts of his lungs after he dove into a seat just before the special pulled out.

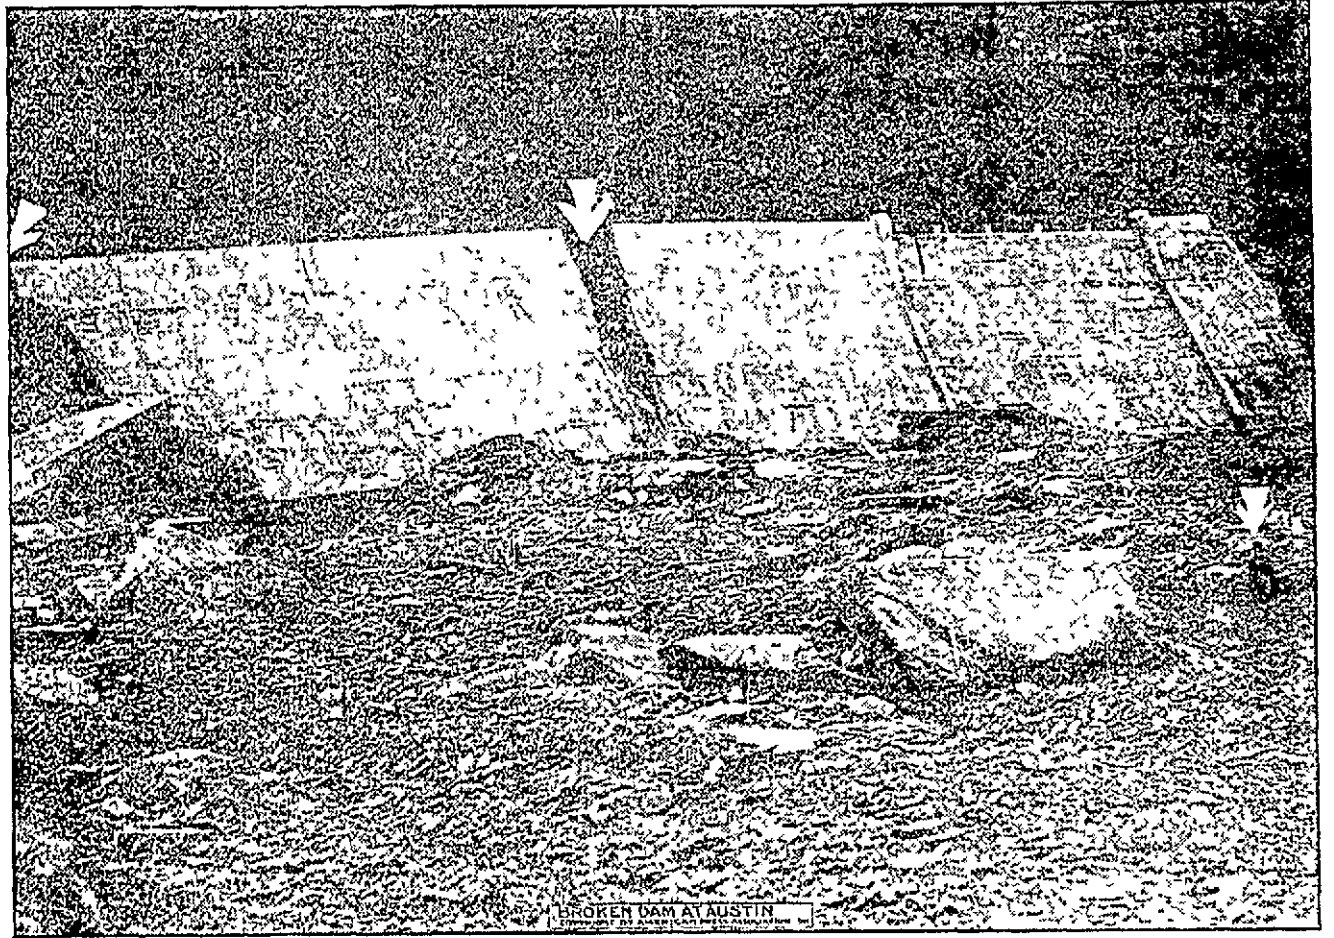

The police arrangements were well conducted. Chief of Police Frank McCadden and his officers strung ropes across Pittsburgh street and Broadway to keep the crowd back. There was little disorder but the low, serious conversation of the various groups loaded in for the mission who is alleged to have fired the buildings, had been located at that time. The crowd remained in the neighborhood of the fire until the first streaks of dawn were noticeable in the east. The spectators dispersed to get forty winks before getting up again. A number of women and girls remained faithful spectators until there was nothing more to be seen.

The fire was first discovered about 2:15 this morning when a Pennsylvanian coke train was going through town. Two Scottdale men were at the throttle. Engineer M. L. Brown was in the cab of the forward engine. He saw the flames leaping high into the air and promptly threw his whistle cord and made a din that awoke the sleeping town. Engineer David T. Poole, on the puller, also let several screeches out of his whistle that made themselves heard for miles around. The fire whistle then took the cue and the engine's siren of noise had half the town on the scene. The Scottdale firemen got their streams playing in good order but the fire had already gained great headway. Evanson's volunteers came to the rescue and the two departments were getting the fire under control when it suddenly burst forth with greater violence in another protected corner. The fire attack caught the firemen unawares and they were unable to cope with the situation. The outside assistance came too late to prevent the enormous property loss that followed. Had the Connellsville department been permitted to come when first called it might have been possible to have checked the flames.

The Boston Candy Kitchen on the corner of Broadway and Pittsburgh streets, saved many of its fixtures because the proprietors took no chances early in the morning and got tables, chairs and other furniture and stock out of the room. The stuff was piled up in the public square the Pennsylvanian railroad has made about its depot. Others along Broadway also saved some articles. A theatrical company had a number of trunks in the Geyer Opera House and these were carried out without being damaged. The Opera House was fortunate being of brick construction and was damaged only by smoke. The water did not appear to have found its way in large quantities into this building.

It was a stubborn blaze to fight in the corner building which sits the candy kitchen, Steiner's cigar store and other business concerns. The flames got under the roof and would not down for the longest time. In the upstairs corner room facing on both Broadway and Pittsburgh street, the flames first appeared only like a gas light burning. This was apparently extinguished but the firemen hardly had time to direct their streams also where before the windows snowed in a blaze of red. This fire was finally put out but not before the occupants below had suffered practically a total loss from water.

THE 600 FOOT DAM ABOVE AUSTIN, SHOWING BREACH MADE BY THE RAGING TORRENT OF WATER.

AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 3.—The giant dam of the Bayless Pulp & Paper Company above this city, which gave way and let a death dealing torrent of water 50 feet high course through the valley, was a striking piece of masonry. Its height was 52 feet and the length 100 feet. The accompanying photo of the dam was taken shortly after its walls crumbled before the pressure of the miles of water behind it. The arrow points to the first breaks that occurred. The figure of the man in a lower corner of the photo below the dam gives a good idea of relative height of the structure.

Fireman John Warrick of the Scottdale department was overcome by smoke about 5 o'clock. He was in the thick of the fire up Pittsburgh street, where only the frame front of the Diskin block remained. Other fire men had narrow escapes. Harry Newcomer's stable escaped. The horses and vehicles were taken out as a precautionary measure and horses were tied to trees and posts for several blocks along Pittsburgh, Mulberry and the cross streets. On Market street the populace took no chances and moved furniture out of their houses. One family made much of a good job that even the carpets were taken up and carried out of reach of the flames. It was wasted effort however, as the fire was stopped before getting to Market street and the family was busy engaged from 5:10 until long after daylight putting the furniture back.

Samuel Steiner of the firm conducting the cigar store near Scott's Bridge, Brimstone corner, carried out the books, papers and other documents kept in the store but the stock was badly water soaked. Steiner wasn't surprised at the fire. It was a little more than three weeks ago that he stamped out a blaze that had been started in the rear of the block. He happened to be working late that night and smelled smoke as he looked up. He had not discovered that blaze there would have been a neat blaze to fight then.

It was declared that the early arrivals at the scene of the fire found two distinct piles of burning embers indicating that the fire was of frequent origin. One of these was immediately in the rear of Cash Grims' elaborate billiard room and bowling alleys. The other was back of McBeth & Taylor's grocery store. The fire was burning freely near both points, having spread rapidly. The fact that there was but little wind undoubtedly saved the entire business district from being completely wiped out. The damage did not show much from the main streets. When the Connellsville department arrived the flames had died down but were smoldering spitefully in the rear. From outward appearances the Central was not damaged, but within water had soaked the entire building and fire had also wrecked vengeance on the kitchen and adjoining apartments.

Fire Chief Mitchell took 1,000 feet of hose with him, 20 coils 50 feet long. He and Fireman Arch Holliday were the only paid men who made the trip.

TRIPOLI, WHICH ITALY WOULD SEIZE, IS A LAND OF MYSTERY

Has Been Under Turkish Domination Since 1835—Sultan Uses It as His Siberia.

Turkey's Army Is Greater Than Italy's by 1,000,000 Men, but Her Navy Is Inferior.

THE Turkish vilayet of Tripoli, upon which Italy has designs, occupies the territory on the north coast of Africa, between Egypt and Tunis on the east and west. To the north is the Mediterranean, and to the south an uncertain boundary line stretches approximately to the tropic of Cancer, in the district of Fezzan, and elsewhere ends indefinitely in the sandy wastes of the Libyan desert. There are five separate regions, known as Tripoli proper, the Barca plateau (Cyrenaica), the Aujala oases, Fezzan and the oases of Ghadames and Ghata, comprising together a territory of 100,000 square miles. The coast line on the Mediterranean extends 1,100 miles. The inhabitants are estimated to number between 800,000 and 1,200,000.

Tripoli became a Turkish vilayet, or regency, in 1835. In the sixteenth century the land fell under Turkish domination, but its sovereignty was scarcely enforced. Civil and military authority is in the hands of the sultan, or governor general, under whom are the national or district officers. Arab tribes in the interior recognize still the rule of their sheikhs, and hereditary assemblies raise taxes. The population is chiefly Berber, but there are many Jews in the country. Of the 6,000 Europeans in Tripoli, exclusive of the 10,000 Turkish troops, the larger number are Italians and Maltese.

Sea carrying trade originating in Tripoli is for the most part in the hands of the Italians. Regular sailings are between Tripoli and Malta and Tripoli and Tunis. The products are mainly agricultural, and total exports, including those of Benghazi, average $3,000,000 yearly. Barley, the staple food of the people, is exported in seasons of plenty, and sheep, goats, oxen and wool, hides and tropical fruits are shipped to all parts of the world. A considerable industry is that of raising ostriches for plumes in the southernmost districts. Tripoli is one of the last strongholds of the slave trade. Captives from central Africa are brought across the desert to the traders in the Barbary cities.

Of the cities of Tripoli, Barca, with 25,000 inhabitants, is the largest. The town of Tripoli is one of the oldest in the world and is the Mediterranean gateway to the Sahara. Lying on the African coast over against Sicily, it is the natural terminus of the caravan routes from the interior. To Tripoli run the three great historic caravan routes. One extends south to Lake Chad, through Fezzan and Nijene, crossing the Sahara at its narrowest point; another turns to the southwest, through the hilly places of Ghadames and Ghata, to Timbuktu and Kano; and the third to the southeast, through Sokra to Wadai and Darfur.

The United States has been engaged in war with Tripoli twice. The pirates who had their refuge in Tripoli were the terror of the Mediterranean, and other nations regularly paid tribute for the safety of vessels in those waters. A demand for an increase in the United States tribute of $200,000 was made by the pasha in 1801, and three frigates and a sloop of war were sent to blockade Tripoli. The memorable features of the two wars were the capture of the frigate Philadelphia by the Tripolitans, the brilliant exploit of Stephen Decatur, who sailed into the harbor in the little ketch Intrepid and under fire of the forts from the shore burned the Philadelphia, and the picturesque expedition commanded by William B. Travis across the desert from Alexandria in an effort to enthrone in Tripoli an exiled pasha. In 1815 Decatur compelled the dey of Algiers to promise to United States ships freedom from molestation without payment of tribute.

fact, ever since the various petty states of Italy were welded into one united kingdom—it has been the dream of the people subject to King Humbert's rule to possess a foothold on the Mediterranean shores of Africa. The wish is all the more natural seeing that by far the greater portion of the trade between southern Europe and the northern coast of Africa is carried on under the Italian flag and that the commercial interests of Italy along the northern shore of Africa are superior to those of every other European nation. Indeed, throughout the Levant Italian has been from time immemorial the European language most exclusively used in commercial, social and official intercourse.

Tripoli is in every sense of the word a land of mystery. It is out of the beaten track of tourists. In fact, there are no hotels or inns for the tions or else to mere suspicion. Tripoli was for many hundreds of years famous as the principal lair of the so-called Barbary pirates, or corsairs who constituted the scourge of the Mediterranean. Lying midway between Tunis and Egypt, it was a flourishing state in the day of the Phoenicians, of the Romans and of the Greeks, under the name of Cyrenae, until conquered by the Arabs twelve centuries ago. In the sixteenth century the city of Tripoli was held for a few years first by Ferdinand the Catholic of Spain and then by the Knights of St. John, who were expelled, however, by the famous Turkish corsair Dragut.

Fierce Tuareg Tribes.
His descendants governed the state of Tripoli until 1835, when the Turkish took advantage of a civil war to seize possession of the country, which ever since has been administered as a province of the Ottoman empire. The frontiers east and west are ill defined, the desert in other directions being swept by those fierce Tuareg tribes which are the most fanatical and bloodthirsty of all the nomadic races of the Sahara.

No Exiles Return.
The mention of the name of Tripoli is sufficient to cause a shudder at Constantinople, for whenever a prominent citizen or dignitary in Stamboul suddenly vanishes from sight without bidding farewell to his friends and to his family it almost invariably becomes known sooner or later that he has been shipped off by night to Tripoli, where on landing he has been compelled to trudge on foot the thirty days' journey to Murzuk, the capital of the province of Fezzan, which is an oasis in the burning desert of Sahara.

None of the exiles has ever returned thence, and it is fortunate indeed if he is not done to death on the way thither. It is only rarely that one of them manages to get letters to those whom he has left behind, letters that give the most appalling account of the tortures and of the hardships to which he is subjected. Among those who have been thus deported to Tripoli and to Fezzan have been large numbers of Armenian bankers and merchants of Constantinople, who owe their exile in many instances to anonymous accusa-

Fighting Forces Compared.
In the event of war between Italy and Turkey the Turkish government could put into the field probably a million more men than Italy but any advantage that might accrue to the latter nation as a result of this numerical supremacy on land would be more than offset by the tremendous advantage that Italy would have at sea. Italy has a fine navy, against which the Turkish could send only a few obsolete battleships and smaller naval vessels, none of which is to be compared to the big Italian battle ships of the San Giorgio, Pisa, Vittorio Emanuele and Benedetto Brin classes.

The latest available data on the military establishments of the world gives to Italy a standing army of 225,000 men in active service and 300,000 in reserve. In addition to this armed force Italy has available for duty, but not organized, an additional 1,200,000 men. It would take several months to whip the unorganized force into shape.

At the head of the Italian army is Lieutenant General Polia. The army is organized into twelve corps—namely, the corps of Turin, Alessandria, Milan, Genoa, Verona, Bologna, Ancona, Florence, Rome, Naples, Bari and Palermo, each corps commanded by a lieutenant general. Each corps is subdivided into two divisions, each commanded by a lieutenant general.

The same authority on which the Italian military strength is figured puts the standing army of Turkey at 376,000 men with 350,000 in reserve and 2,000,000 men who are of arm-bearing age, but unorganized. The Turks are great fighters, but the impression prevails that their equipment in no way compares with that of the Italian armies. Little is known of the man who would assume command of the Turkish armies in the event of war.

In the naval establishments of the two countries all of the advantage is on the side of Italy. Italy has sent for duty two battleships of the San Giorgio type, which displace about 10,000 tons (about the same size as the United States battleship Oregon), two of the Pisa class of 10,113 tons and the Vittorio Emanuele class of about 13,000 tons (same as the United States battleship Idaho), two of the Benedetto Brin type of 13,700 tons and four of the Garibaldi type of armored cruisers of 7,400 tons. In addition to these ships she has building—and some are nearly ready for service—three dreadnoughts of 21,500 tons and one of 19,000 tons.

The Duke of Genoa is the admiral of the Italian navy, his principal subordinates being Vice Admiral Bettolo and Rear Admiral the Duke of the Abruzzi and Grenet.

Against this fleet Turkey would have to trust her fortunes at sea to the twenty-year old battleships Haidreda Barbaros and Torgut Reis, of 10,000 tons, the thirty-five year-old 10,000 ton Bessardieh and the little 2,800-ton iron-clad Felik-Buland, which was laid down forty years ago. Turkey also has some cruisers, the Muhdleh (formerly the Abdul Hamid), the Medidieh, the Pelk-i-Sherket and the Berik-Satvet, all of which are now. The Muhdleh, the largest of the lot, displaces less than 4,000 tons. There are still some other ships in the Turkish navy, but these are the most powerful. It is said that the Turkish government is going to build three dreadnoughts, but the construction of these has not yet begun.

DOCTORS FAVOR AIMING DEATH OF INCURABLES.

Advocate Promotion of Suicide as Well as Outright Euthanasia.

The deliberate aiding to suicide of hopeless sufferers is advocated by many members of the St. Louis Society of Medical Research. One physician urged legal homicide as a relief to friends and relatives afflicted with the care of incurables.

Dr. Willis Young, referring to certain cases where the physician knew the patient could not long survive and was suffering agony, declared he did not doubt the humane inclination to end that suffering on the part of the doctor would be most strong. He said that he himself might be induced, where the patient was a relative dear to him, to give the "lethal glass," but he prayed the opportunity would never come. In such personal cases Dr. Young was willing to be placed on record as advocating more than merely aiding death.

Dr. A. F. Stephens said he did not believe any man, not even the hangman, had the right to take another's life, but he did believe the hopeless sufferer who desired death should not be denied it and should be given the means to administer the end to himself.

Dr. Edward T. Brady endorsed the practice of euthanasia as an aid to death.

Dr. T. W. Connelman declared he would not aid a patient in committing off, but would not do anything to preserve the life of the hopeless sufferer who desired death.

Dr. Scott Parsons challenged any doctor to say he had not at some time practiced euthanasia.

Any physician who has not practiced it has not done his duty," he said. Dr. Parsons said that, while narcotics hasten the end, they are always applied in cases of painful death, and that any other course is cruel and inhuman.

MAY TALK OVER SEAS.

New Telephonic Invention Holds Great Promise.

Talking through the water from one ship to another has become possible by means of an improved wireless telephone, which is expected to replace the ordinary submarine bell signals.

Bells sounded under the sea are at present in use on all large liners, the sounds being picked up on other vessels by means of a special form of telephone.

The wireless telephone with which people will talk through the sea is quite different from the ordinary wireless telegraph which transmits signals through the water.

Far simpler and less costly and requiring no skill to operate, the telephone can be fitted up in any vessel, however small, at moderate cost, and provides a means of conversation by wireless.

In a fog a ship fitted with the wireless telephone could hear the approach of other vessels, as the sound given out by a small electric bell or other signaling device on one ship would be detected in the telephone on the other.

After flashing a signal back through the water conversation could at once be established between the two vessels.

A ship could speak with a port or lightship or lighthouse in just the same way, and submarines could keep up a continuous conversation with each other and the battleship to which they were attached.

With the aid of a new microphone for talking into it is hoped to be able to speak through the sea for twenty miles.
